LAST WEEK: Karen's trip for Interplast

Karen gave a presentation on her trip with a specialised Interplast team for a week to Samoa. From triage to education, and surgery to follow-up, the team of quirky nurses, surgeons and an anaesthetist treat many people in need of plastic surgery, and educate staff at the local hospital on nursing and surgical skills. All of the children treated had cleft lips and/or palates and their operations are only able to be performed by surgeons who fly in to Samoa. Most of these children are underweight, have hearing and speech problems and are prone to infections. We heard of the provision of special night gowns and teddy bears for the children, made by volunteers. And also the small world of meeting a past neighbour, who is working as a speech therapist in Samoa! They were working in the town of Apia and had a brief look around the town and the area. A very religious Christian country, with many large and ornate churches, and yet many people live in quite poor housing.
