(New Generation Service Exchange)

NGSE returning candidate

Kyp recently returned from Germany, where he went as one of a team of 4 to learn more about aged care and dementia. He is a registered nurse and the others were a speech therapist, and accountant working in the health industry and a young woman working with Huntington's chorea research.

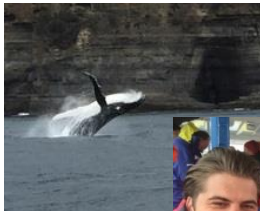

They visited many community and government facilities, residential homes and hospitals. A significant observation was the low ratio of staff to patients enabling optimal care of residents in care. Often 1:2. The hospitals, also, were highly staffed and often not full. He spoke of the use of diversional therapies, e.g. animals in the facility or the use of an animal robot that responds to touch and sound. Also, that sensory activities, with wind chimes and scented garden areas were commonly used. They enjoyed many cultural visits as well and he described this as the "trip of a lifetime".
